Hi Kyle,

Good to hear that the project is going well.

- Did you want the slider to be able to select any time within a range? You can set the slider with increment of one minute, like 1,2,3,... 50 mins. And set the range from 1 to 100 mins.

Sure, we can set up a meeting for last week of this month. Just let me know whatever date and time works good for you.

Hi Simran,

I know it's been a bit since we've communicated, but the project is coming along. We have a question about when to notify the user of their bus arrival. When we talked last you said you wanted it to be something like a slider instead of the buttons that were there as placeholders. Did you want the slider to be able to select any time within a range? For instance you could be notified in five and a half minutes or any time you choose or did you want the slider just for visual theme and still want a few preset selected times? We should have a decent amount to show you after our reading break which is from Feb 18 - 22. If we could set up a meeting for the week after to get some final feedback before we finish the project that would be great!
